ETNA-IZE TODAY Twenty-second Annual Intercollegiste Regatta Will be Rowed at Poughkeepsie Today-Hudson Shrouded With Rain and Mist Friday.

Poughkeepeie, N. Y., June 16.—Unfavorable weather conditions which have handleapped the carsmen during the last ten days of training for the twenty-second annual regatta of the intercollegiate Rowing Association pursued the crews to the evs of race day. Rain and mist chrouded the Hudson most of the day, while a south east wind which kicked up whitecaps effectually prevented the final practice planned by the coaches.

Syracuse and Fennsylvania did not take to the water at all during the afternoon and Columbia and Cornell were unable to get out until twilight and then only for a short paddle. As a result, Coach Rices of Columbia announced that his crews would row again tomorrow morning but there is no evidence that the other squads will follow suit.

A continuation of the showers is forecasted for tomorrow when the freshmen, junior and varsity crews are schednled to battle for supremacy in the three races which comprise the programme of the day's racing.

Not in several years has the trio of races presented a more open or uncertain aspect. Pronounced favorites are lacking and predictions of surprises and upsets are freely made. Syracuse is the choice of many for the varsity four-mile event and owing to the preponderance of backing is a 5 to 4 favorite to defeat Cornell, the second he preponderance of backing is a continuous favorite to defeat Cornell, the second choice. In the junior and freshman races Cornell was quoted at even money against the field with Syracuse second choice in both minor events.

Manager Jennings Unjustly Charged Writes Norman Bearsley in Detroit

Jennings has been unjustly charged with keeping Sam Crawford on the bench through spite. The absurdity of such a charge is apparent when it is considered that success means troubles.

In the next place, Jennings honostly believes Sam is at his trail's end as an outfielder. Jennings, in believeing this, shares an idea with a lot of baseball men. Sam is at the age when tendons tighten and he cannot cover ground as he once did. Slow rumers take advantage of his throwing arm and Jennings, in playing Hellmann in right field, was castig about for a capable substitute. a capable substitute.

Hughic does not believe Crawford's days are ended as a major leaguer, and he wants Sam to play first base but Crawford is unwilling because of a lack of practice.

Jennings has been switching his team shout—that's true—but he has made switches with the purpose of getting a winning combination. Surely that is a laudable destre.

Jennings has been unable to use Crawford through most of the season because the veteran has been suffersing from an assortment of aliments. It was an impossible thought to consider Sam in the line-up when beset by these troub'ss.
